Extra info: Current berth can be taken over as office vessel

Are you and your company looking for a very special office on the water This office ship named "Antoon Van Dijck" was built in 1965 in the Dutch town of Heusden and was formerly used as a ferry on inland waterways, currently the ship no longer has engines. Then she was used as a restaurant ship and currently as a floating office. In 2018, this office ship was completely refitted to serve as a comfortable working environment. The current berth in the Willemdok in Antwerp can be taken over as an office ship.
