1982 Nautor Swan 42

The sailboat Swan 42 "Phaco" is a habitable cruising monohull, built by Nautor's Swan shipyard in Finland. This sailboat, rigged in sloop in the lead, designed by naval architect Ron Holland, is 12.8 m long with a maximum draught of 2.4 m. Production started in 1980 and ended in 1985. (38 copies of the boat were produced)

Phaco has only had two owners (the actual one since 2006) has always ensured its perfect maintenance entrusted to a Skipper by trade. It is visible on the Port of Corbières in Marseille L'Estaque.

The teak bridge was completely redone in 2016 by carpenter Robin Marine for an amount of €40,000.

In July 2019, the stern-post was completely redone, the mast and the shaft stuffing box were changed.
