Beskrivelse

The Wilderness 1120X is one of our most popular Jeff Schionning designs, well suited to coastal cruising, live aboard, weekend trips with family or friends or short ocean passages. Longer ocean passage need careful planning so you don't overload her, but with a water maker and sensible loading, she can sail anywhere. This size cat is very easy to handle so you don't need loads of crew and being light and nimble, she is lots of fun to sail. The generous waterline length with centralised weight and long fore and aft overhangs, loads of buoyancy including reserves high up forward in the hulls, a moderate rig and easily driven hulls, she has every desirable feature, making her extremely safe and an excellent design choice. This unit has been custom build as KIT construction system on original plans. The cat received several optimized installations as the E-power-propulsion + outboard-engines. The Kasko was road-transported and now launched at the Mosel to step the A-rigg. An exclusive opportunity to buy an individually up-graded performance cruising cat. Current condition requires about 500 hours refit and additional TLC before setting sails (not included). A rare opportunity for capable boatbuilders to be finalized.
